

Boosting village church appeal

CHECK THIS OUT...sister and brother Lilly and William, aged three and two, look on as others enjoy the action at Willoughby fete.

A wide variety of attractions on offer included the chuck-a-sponge stall, children's fancy dress competition, music and dance.

Craftsmen and women turned up to show off their work at the craft fair, staged as part of the first fete held in the grounds of the village's Old Rectory for more than 15 years.

Organisers were pleased with the number of paying visitors and said it would help their bid to raise £14,000 for the village church appeal.
